STOCK NOTES.

No doubt Bro. Good and other Cherry county people would like to have the whole west end of the state organized into one big association with headquarters at Valentine. We know nothing about the Brown county organization, but we know that the Keya Paha River Stock Growers' Association has about a hundred members and that the secretary is kept good and busy filling out new applications. Satisfactory and adequate arrangements for inspection at market points have been made with one of the larger associations, and the Keya Paha River association didn't have to submit to being gobbled up in order to make such arrangements, either. The various associations throughout the state should co-operate heartily with each other, but this talk of "consolidation" is all nonsense. Stockmen in this section see no object in having to go to Valentine or Alliance in order to attend a meeting when they can have a meeting of their own at Brooksbury or Stuart. The Western Nebraska Stock Association is a good thing and every stockman within its proper jurisdiction should hasten to become a member of it; but it must not get too hoggy or ambitious. It should reflect on the fate of the frog which tried to be as big as the ox. It is not the only pebble on the beach. There are others, and some of them are not "too small to be of any great benefit to their members."—Naper News.

Abortion among cows may be due to a variety of causes. Abortion arising from an accident, or any other cause, often becomes contagious. Infectious abortion has long been known in this country.

Among the causes of abortion are the following, viz.: Impure water, unsound food, frosted food, offensive smells, disease, fright, over-exertion, accident and the use of bulls that have come into contact with the disease.

The calf bed and passages of aborted cows should be disinfected; and for this purpose, and for a continuance of this operation—applied externally as well as internally to the genitals—I recommend the commercial chloride of zinc, 1 part in 1,000 parts of water. It is less irritating, less poisonous, and much cheaper than other antiseptics or germicides.—Drovers' Journal.

A report from Chamberlain, S. D., says that Messrs. Wilkes, Ford and Ritchie, of the Canadian and South Dakota Cattle company, recently incorporated under the laws of South Dakota by Canadian capitalists with a capital of $200,000, arrived in Chamberlain and left for the range country west of the Missouri river for the purpose of looking up a location for the company.

The gentlemen stated that they intended to look over the ground for a week or so, when they would return to this city and perfect the organization of the company. The company will bring about eighteen men from Canada, and those interested also believe they will be able to bring young stock from that country with which to stock up their range at a profit.—Drovers' Journal.

The Homestead has the following to say in praise of the Angora goat: "The Angora goat suits the situation of a great many American farmers. Their friends claim for them that they are kept at less expense than sheep, that they are less liable to disease and that the price of the fleece beats wool. They are adapted to a dry climate and while they graze and make a good use of the short grass, they are especially and above all things browsers, being fond of brush and twigs, and they thrive well in a broken, hilly country containing much scrubby tree growth. The pelts have a very considerable value, and the flesh is said to be excellent."

Considerable contesting of lands in the neighborhood of Irving on the Platte is going on at present. It seems that a lawyer in Sidney is at the bottom of the affair and is taking this manner to levy blackmail on the Platte river ranchmen. In the cases tried so far the ranchmen have been successful. It is to be hoped this nefarious business will be stopped, and men who are complying with the law in regard to homesteads and who have obtained title to lands by legitimate means will be protected in their rights.—Alliance Grip.

S. W. Reese is to be manager of a new and novel sheep shearing plant this season and is busily engaged at Newberry's ware rooms in fitting it out. It will be a portable one, mounted on a wide tire wagon and a heavy frame built for the purpose. It will employ about ten men, there being eight shears. Power is to be furnished by three one and one-half horse power Fairbanks-Morse gasoline engines, one of these being for use mostly in case of breakdowns. Mr. Reese expects to commence work about May 10th, and figures that they will be able to shear about 700 head of sheep per day. The price to be charged will be about ten cents per head. The whole outfit will be covered with a heavy canvas tent and accompanied by a cook and sleeping outfit.—Alliance Times.

Horses are going to be scarce and high-priced for a number of years to come in this country. The reason we make this assertion is the fact that the war in South Africa is using up horses very fast. The Boer always tries to kill or cripple as many of the enemy's horses as he possibly can, for he figures, and rightly, too, from a military standpoint, that a dead horse is just about as great a loss as a dead soldier. The climate, too, kills a great many unacclimated animals. The British army looks to America for its remounts, and horse dealers in New York, Chicago and New Orleans have orders for about 50,000 head, to be sent to South Africa as soon as possible. If this keeps on very long horses will surely become scarce, and consequently higher priced.

Do You Have Fifty Cents? If you have, will tell you how to get the most for your money. The Semi-Weekly State Journal, published at Lincoln, wants several thousand new subscribers and as a special inducement will mail the paper twice a week from now until the end of this year for only 50 cents. Two papers each week with all the news of the world, through the great presidential campaign and the campaign in this state for two United States senators and the state ticket. Never in your life have you been offered so much reading matter for 50 cents. Send in your money right now, because the sooner you send it in the more papers you get for your money. Address Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.
